

Simon J. Blattner

Simon Blattner is currently working and living in Sonoma, CA. After a long career in the Printing, Paper, and Fine Arts industries, Blattner is investing in the occasional Real Estate transaction and volunteering in non-profit activities in the Valley.

In 2013 Simon served as co-chair of the committee, which raised the funds necessary to complete the new emergency and surgery complex at Sonoma Valley Hospital. He served as President of the Board of the Sonoma Valley Museum of Art through March 2015.

Recently, Simon and several colleagues formed a committee to operate a micro loan fund for La Luz Center.

In his early working years (1968-1970), Blattner founded the San Francisco Local Development Corporation to assist minority business development in San Francisco.

He and his wife, Kimberly, live full time in Sonoma where from 2010-2012, Kimberly was President of the Board of La Luz.
